

TALK ABOUT FEET.

Terrible Skin Affections Put to Rest by Psolan.

A recent exchange of experiences between ten persons developed the fact that nine of them were suffering from foot trouble which caused continual annoyance and serious concern. According to those who know, the best thing to do when the feet are tired, itchy, itching, chafed or broken out is to apply a little psolan and note how quickly the difficulty will vanish.

Psolan is the new skin remedy which so rapidly combats the worst cases of eczema, and all skin troubles, stopping all itching with the first application. It makes quick work of sore, herpes, itchy, scaly scalp, barbers' and every other form of skin. Occasional applications in small quantities will quickly banish pimples, hives, blackheads, blotches, etc. A special package of psolan is prepared for those who use psolan for minor skin troubles and this, as well as the regular two-dollar jar, is on sale at Lee & Osgood's and Smith's Drug Store in Norwich, the Le-rus Drug Store in Putnam, Woodhead Drug Store in Danvers, and Cheesbro Drug Store in Williamsport.

But no one is even asked to purchase psolan without first obtaining a sample package, which will be sent by mail, free of charge, upon request, by the Emergency Laboratories, Twenty-fifth Street, New York City.

Carriage Smashed by Electric Car

Collision in North Main Street Near Gas House—S. W. Lacy Thrown Out and Dragged Some Distance.

The Greenville-West Side car leaving Franklin square for Greenville at 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, in charge of Motorman George Leonard and Conductor William H. Sweet, collided with a cutaway top carriage from the livery stable of G. E. Hodge on North Main street near the gas house. The carriage was smashed, the horse was somewhat cut and bruised, and the single occupant of the vehicle, Samuel W. Lacy, employed by Mr. Hodge, was also considerably shaken up, being dragged along for some distance.

The trolley company has a double track on North Main street. As Mr.

Lacy was driving down the street an extra car from the Greenville barn for the Yantic line came down and to get out of its way he swung his horse and carriage back, as he was waiting for a passenger. The Greenville car was just at this time, and although the motorman rang his gong the driver of the team did not hear it and was unable to get out of the way.

At the stable Thursday evening it was stated that the carriage was smashed beyond repair. The injuries to the driver and the horse were not serious. It is considered a fortunate escape for Mr. Lacy.

INDEPENDENTS LOST TO EVENING BUSINESS MEN.

Y. M. C. A. Basketball Tournament Game—Score 23 to 14.

In the Y. M. C. A. basketball tournament the Independents and the Evening Business Men's team met on Thursday night at the gymnasium, the latter winning out 23 to 14 after the Independents had led them 11 to 5 at the end of the first period. The result gave the winners a standing midway in the tournament, while the losers go down to the bottom of the ladder, where they are tied with the Academy second team.

Copy of the Independents led all ten men as a point scorer in the game, his baskets totaling nine of the tallies made by the losers. Tuttle of the Business Men scored a total of one point less.

The lineups and summary: Evening Business Men—Tuttle Jr., Meloche Jr., Ashland Jr., Ricker Jr., Krohn Jr. Independents—Jackson Jr., Walker Jr., Forsberg Jr., Robinson Jr., Coy Jr., Scott Jr., Evening Business Men 23, Independents 14. Field goals, Tuttle 3, Meloche 2, Ashland 3, Krohn 1, Walker 1, Robinson 1, Coy 4, foul goals, Tuttle 2, Meloche 1, Krohn 2, Forsberg 1, Coy 2, referee, Mr. Bandlow, umpire, E. Colligan, timer, W. Huntington, scorer, J. McCormick.

Three of the teams met in games on Saturday evening.

The standing:

BRITISH MINISTERS ADOPT NEW DEVICE

To Keep Power of the Purse in Hands of House of Commons.

London, March 10.—The ministers adopted a new device in the war between the lords and commons by asking parliament today to vote supplies for six weeks only, instead of from four to six months, as has been the practice the last fifteen years. The fact is not concealed that this device is intended to keep the power of the purse in the hands of the house of commons, in readiness for a fresh constitutional crisis, which is expected in the month of May, when the lords probably will reject the resolutions curtailing their power of veto so as to bring about the resignation of the government.

If supplies were voted for six months Mr. Balfour could then take office and carry on the government, but with the necessity of coming to the house of commons for a new vote on supply he would be defeated.

The conservatives in the house of commons today indignantly denounced the government's action as a "shabby trick in its policy of evasion and chicanery," their newspapers echo this sentiment.

Chancellor Lloyd-George frankly admits that it is his intention thus to keep effective control over the executive from whichever side of the house that executive is drawn and it is understood that the laborites and the nationalists will support the government. In the meantime, to guard against surprise and the possibility of defeat by a snap division, the government has arranged to have a circular to all its supporters, impressing upon them the necessity of constant attendance in the house of commons.

MATT HENSEN DISGUSTED.

Complains of Shabby Treatment at Hands of Commander Peary.

Syracuse, N. Y., March 10.—Matt Hensen, lecturer in his native city on the trip to the North pole with Commander Robert E. Peary, tonight expressed indignation at what he termed Peary's "shabby treatment" of him since his return to this country.

"I am very much surprised at him," Hensen declared in his lecture at the New York on October 3 he has paid no attention to me and has not even communicated with me. After the hardships we went through together and the work I have done for him, not mentioning the number of times I actually saved his life, I think he should do more than he has. It is all on account of his selfishness. He wants everything for himself and evidently begrudges me what little success I may be having with my lectures."

Can Grow Black Roses?

Confidently asserting that after fifteen years' experimenting he has discovered a process whereby black roses may be grown, Dennis Tapley, from Savannah, Ga., is in Washington, to obtain, if possible, a patent upon his discovery.

He was preceded by a letter written by Col. A. R. Lawton, vice president of the Central of Georgia railroad, who has interested himself in Tapley's claims, and who has asked the representative of the Georgia to take charge of the matter before the patent office. This Mr. Edwards will do, assuring the claims, and who has asked the representative of the Georgia to take charge of the matter before the patent office. This Mr. Edwards will do, assuring the claims, and who has asked the representative of the Georgia to take charge of the matter before the patent office.

The black rose is something for which the world has been waiting for a long time. The discoverer says that within the past month he has been offered $500,000 for his secret the day it is protected by patent, but he is slow in accepting any offer.—Washington Despatch to the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Something Yet to Do.

The Rockefeller Foundation will not relieve the average citizen of all his duties toward his fellow-men.—Chicago News.

The Case of Morse.

Charles V. Morse was accused of breaking the national banking laws. He was indicted, tried, found guilty and sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment in the penitentiary at Atlanta. For a few months he was out on bail. During that time he managed to recuperate from his losses. Out of the ruin which had involved him he rescued about seven million dollars. Legally every cent of this was his. There was no reason why he should pay any of it to people who had suffered financially from the failure of the Morse bank, no legal reason, we understand.

When the Standard Oil company was fined twenty-nine million dollars it was considered by many to be unusual and harsh punishment, and the courts refused to sustain it. Had Morse been fined one million dollars many would have considered this a harsh and unusual punishment. We hold no brief for the man, but there is much in his favor. His incarceration now smacks somewhat of vengeance. Is it not just possible that justice is too severe in his case? We think it is. He returned voluntarily from Europe to face his accusers. He has acted since he left on him in every way like an honest man. He has met every demand on him and made full restitution.—The Charleston News and Courier.

The Sardine Deception.

A Boston despatch says that officials of the pure food bureau have seized there 250,000 boxes of sardines because they were falsely labeled. The specific charge was that the fish were not packed in olive oil as claimed. There is a good deal of deceit in a little can of sardines. In the first place the fish are not sardines at all, but only cummers or something of the sort masquerading as the real thing. Then they are packed in cottonseed oil and put up in cans that are not honestly tin—simply sheet iron with a mighty thin wash of tin. The fish are packed in a most palatable and wholesome. The trouble is that they constitute a mercantile lie. People have a right to know exactly what they are buying. There seems to be no necessity for the disguise or the fraud. The fish would be liked just as well with a truthful label.—Bristol Press.

Why Do Men DRINK?

When you stop to think of the terrible results which come to men who indulge in excess in intoxicating beverages, well may you ask, Why do men drink? The fact simply stated is "A victim of the Drink Habit can no more resist liquor than a man with acute stop shivering." Drunkenness is a disease and must be treated as such. The wives and mothers of those who drink intoxicants will be glad to know there is a remedy which will restore their loved ones to lives of sobriety and usefulness. Many thousands of grateful women praise Orin for its benefits. Orin has been known to effect a cure after all other means failed.

Faxon & Rockefeller, 24 West Park St., Butte, Mont., tell about a case of drunkenness of 25 years' standing. Read what they say: "A gentleman well known to us who has been a hard drinker for twenty-five years, stated he had been entirely cured by Orin. We consider this a remarkable case, as the gentleman has been treated three different times at a well known sanatorium. This and other cases that have come to our knowledge gives us confidence in your preparation, and it gives us pleasure to recommend it to those who are seeking a reliable cure for intemperance."

Orin is prepared in two forms. No. 1, a powder, absolutely tasteless and odorless, given secretly in food or drink. Orin No. 2, in pill form, is for those who wish to cure themselves. Orin costs only $1 a box. The guarantee is in each box. Write for Orin Booklet (mailed in plain sealed envelope) to Orin Co., 347 E. Washington, Washington, D. C. Orin is for sale in this city by N. D. Sevin & Son, 118 Main St. This booklet Orin is a reliable and efficacious remedy for drunkenness and they will not offer you a substitute.

Funerals.

Amos T. Maine.

The funeral services of Amos T. Maine were held on Monday at 10 o'clock, at his late residence in Woodville, R. I., and were conducted by Rev. T. H. Root from the text, "I and 4 and 5. Appropriate hymns were sung by John P. Kenyon and Miss Anna B. Kenyon.

He was the son of Isaac C. Ellis, Herbert C. Kenyon, Daniel B. Maine and Perry Maine. Interment was at Maine's Meeting House cemetery at Amos Tyler Maine, who died on Friday, March 4, was born June 24, 1823, in North Stonington, on the old Maine near Laurel Glen.

He was the son of Amos Samuel Maine and Polly Slocum Maine, and was one of a family of six children, three sons and three daughters. A younger brother, Milten M. Maine of Clark's Falls, survives him. In his youth he was employed in the cotton mill of White Rock and Jewett City.

He was married June 4, 1845, to Mrs. Eliza Jane Davis, daughter of North Stonington. Mr. Maine's occupation during most of his life was agriculture.

He resided in Woodville from 1857 to 1893 and again during the five years preceding his death. Between these two periods he lived for five years at Point Judith and also in Westerly.

Two of Mr. Maine's brothers were in the civil war, serving in Company G of the Twenty-first Connecticut. Latham H. Maine died in the army. Silas W. Maine was for seven or eight months a prisoner in Andersonville and after his discharge from there returned home on a furlough to recuperate. The war closed before his return.

Mr. Maine had been failing in health since last fall. Always a hard worker and very energetic, he threw himself with great force into whatever he did and never spared himself, thus unduly weakening a constitution naturally very strong. For several weeks he had had a severe cold which increased by degrees until the week before his death. He was taken with a chill on Sunday, February 27, and pneumonia developed. He seemed to rally on Tuesday, but failed to get very rapidly till his death on Friday.

One of Mr. Maine's marked characteristics was thoroughness for others. Gentle and kindly in the home he was always quick to do for others in order to save them labor. He had a ready sense of humor. He was a man of quiet nature and of few words, but resolute and determined. Scarcely more than a week before his death he started from his chair with the exclamation, "I'll do it myself if you can't get anyone else—a thoroughly characteristic movement. His would sometimes light up in a wonderful way when something was said which particularly appealed to his love and to his sense of duty. He was a kind father, a faithful husband and companion, and possessed in a remarkable degree the affection of his children and grandchildren. He was interested in public affairs, was a good friend and neighbor and had the respect of all.

Besides his wife, he leaves three children, Mrs. C. Moses Barker of Woodville, Mrs. Frank E. Gavitt of Peacedale and Alva Howard Maine of Maumuck. One son, Walter Eugene, died when six years old. He leaves also four grandchildren, besides nephews and nieces.

Eating Peanuts.

Five million pounds of peanuts is quite a heap. But pretty nearly that amount came to this country last year from Japan, in exchange for nearly $180,000 of our money. But that is a mere nothing compared with the amount of peanuts raised in this country and to a good extent consumed right here; and the sum total of our peanut-eating is swelled by some ten upon Spain's crop of the popular little peanut. The Spanish peanut is also grown in some quantity in this country, having been introduced into it by the Spaniards and North Carolina, where of our own southern states chief attention is paid to peanut culture. Take it altogether, the American consumption of the product reaches a very considerable figure. Its good service as food has come to be generally recognized only of comparatively recent times, but now we are wise enough to put it to a variety of food uses. Some question has been raised as to the practicability of relying upon the Japanese peanut with the possibility of deterioration on the long journey over. But of that country's exportation last year, we took nearly four-fifths.—New Bedford Standard.
